

MORE THAN ONE CHILD A WEEK ADMITTED TO MANOR OVER DRUGS

The Manor – latest figures on child drug abuse treatment

Major Hospital bosses have revealed that more than one child a week is admitted due to drug abuse – with patients younger than 13 being treated. Figures released by hospital bosses show that the problems are getting worse with cases rising every year.

While more than a dozen teenagers a year are being treated for mental and behavioural disorders brought on by using drugs or psychoactive substances.

Hospital bosses have stated there has been a notable rise of children self-harming by overdosing on prescribed drugs found in households rather than recreational drugs.

Conservative Councillor Rose Martin, formally responsible for health and wellbeing in the borough, warned the issue could lead to a tragic death and said the priority was to find out where the drugs were coming from.

She said: "It is absolutely appalling if young children under the age of 16 are getting hold of these drugs. It surprises me if any child gets them, let alone so many and those as young as 12. We need to be speaking to parents and teachers to find out before a fatality happens."

In just nine months leading up to September last year 67 children under the age of 16 were diagnosed with 'poisoning by drugs, medicaments and biological substances' – 13 of them were aged 12 or younger.

Out of those, four cases related to anti-depressants and two cases involved psychoactive drug ecstasy. The numbers are on course to mark the fifth increase in a row – there were 45 child admissions in 2012, 48 in 2013, 65 in 2014 and 80 in 2015.

In the same nine-month period 22 under 18s were diagnosed with drug-related mental disorders. In previous years there were 33 in 2012, 35 in 2013, 21 in 2014 and 19 in 2015.

Caroline Whyte, head of nursing for children, young people and neonates at Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust, said: "There is often demand and difficulties on beds and resources. Also the behaviour of these children and young people can be challenging. We have taken steps to address this by employing dedicated staff to provide one to one supervision to high risk young people."

Walsall has highest rate of empty shops

WALSALL has the highest rate of empty shops than any other town in the West Midlands – but the picture is improving in the town, new figures have revealed.

The Local Data Company has released a national report which shows 22.8 per cent of shops in the town are vacant.

This places the town at the bottom of the list in the West Midlands, and ninth bottom in the country, for retail vacancy rates.

However, the rate has dropped in the town from 25 per cent six months ago, which figures were released for the first half of last year. The new figures are for the whole of last year.

The worst town in the country for shop vacancy rates was Burslem, where 31.1 per cent of shops were empty.

POLITICS

Get a grip over Brexit, says MP

WALSALL MP David Winnick has urged the Government to 'get a grip' on Brexit after it was announced the Prime Minister will trigger Article 50 on Wednesday, nine months after the country voted to leave.

Mr Winnick said he was 'yet to be convinced' ministers were fully prepared to enter departure negotiations and said the Government needed to 'get a grip' on the situation 'as quickly as possible'.

CRIME

Shoplift reports at nearly two per day

THERE are nearly two reports of shoplifting in Walsall town centre a day, according to the latest figures. Police received 736 reports in the 12-month period between February 2016 and January this year in the St Matthews area which includes the high street, Caldmore and neighbourhoods on the north side of the A454 Aldridge Road.

It is the second most frequently reported crime in the area below anti-social behaviour which saw 862 incidents in the period.

Walsall Council leader Sean Coughlan has called for a joint strategy between traders, the police and council.

KILLER DRIVER
GETS FOUR YEARS

A 72-year-old motorist who killed a three-year-old girl weeks after being told to stop driving because of poor eyesight has been jailed for four years.

John Place wasn't even wearing his glasses when he hit Poppy-Arabella Clarke and her mother Rachel on a pelican crossing on the Chester Road and only stopped when flagged down by another driver.

Place, of Bakers Lane, Streetley, admitted charges of causing death and serious injury by dangerous driving in the accident at Sutton Coldfield last July. He was jailed at Birmingham Crown Court this week.

Poppy-Arabella's mother and father Phil, who are unable to have any more children, urged drivers to listen to medical advice. And their lawyer called for a "Poppy-Arabella's law" requiring medical professionals to report people unfit to drive.

The family statement said: "Little Poppy-Arabella, after a lovely morning playing with mummy, was excited to be heading to nursery to see her friends.

"Poppy-Arabella and I never got to nursery. Mr John Place smashed into both herself and her mummy whilst we were in the middle of a pedestrian crossing, with lights having been on red for many seconds.

"Mr Place had been told three weeks before the collision to stop driving by two optometrists after falling far below the required eyesight standards set by the DVLA, even when he was wearing glasses.

"As a result of Mr Place's selfish behaviour, a beautiful day became a scene of devastation. Our little girl lay bleeding with catastrophic injuries and her mummy too with serious injuries.

"Poppy-Arabella fought an incredibly brave battle at the roadside. She loved life and wanted to hold on to it, but she lost that battle at 6.50pm that evening, her mummy, daddy, her grandparents and her cuddly rabbit Ra Ra by her side. While Mr Place was today given a four-year jail sentence, we have been left with a life sentence without our little girl, whose entire life was stolen from her in a fraction of a second.

"All drivers, you have a personal responsibility to heed medical advice, to ensure you are fit to get behind the wheel."

Defending Place, a married father of three, Mr John Edwards said: "This is a terrible blight on what was a thoroughly decent and upright life."

He confirmed Place was suffering from a cognitive degenerative condition and depression, and that he expressed 'deep remorse'.

Rod weekend proves plain Sailing

HUNDREDS turned out for Walsall's annual Rod Stewart Fan Club Big Weekend.

In its seventh consecutive year at The Saddlers Club, fans from across the globe, Rod Stewart lookalikes and even Rod's sister attended the three-day event.

It's estimated nearly 1,000 people turned out from Friday through to Sunday and the promoters summed up the weekend as 'absolutely fantastic'.

Dave Reddy, who co-organised the annual event, said: "We had three great live acts. Obviously we have people locally and being based in central location encourages people to come from across the country. We also had people from Mexico, Germany and USA come too. Previously we've had people from Australia and Japan come as well – it's a huge event."

The 33-year-old paid tribute to the live acts – Martie Peters, Creagan & Co and Stan Terry. He added: "They were all great and I think Creagan & Co were the highlight, they brought the house down as they always do."

Couple celebrate 60 glorious years

Francis and Valerie Lefevre

AFTER six decades of marriage Francis and Valerie Lefevre are still as happy as ever. The Walsall couple celebrated their Diamond wedding anniversary on Thursday but Valerie, aged 80, says she feels just as strongly about her husband as the day they met.

The two met on the dance-floor of The Digbeth club on Stafford Street at a dance in 1955 and two years later they were married, despite the slight problem of Francis being in Malta with the army at the time. On just two days' leave, Francis managed to return home and tie the knot with his sweetheart at Walsall Registry Service, before heading back out to carry on with his service.

Valerie said: "We are as happy today as we ever have been. It sounds cliché but when they made my husband they broke the mould, his every thought is to make me happy. We fell in love instantly and we decided that we wouldn't let his National Service stand in the way of us getting married."

"We didn't have time for a church wedding but we still managed to have a wonderful service and party afterwards. These days we are still inseparable, we go everywhere together, even the doctors. It might sound a bit sad but I don't care." Valerie and Francis have two sons, Ralph and Craig and four grandsons.

They have lived in Walsall together for the last 60 years and marked their anniversary with a family party. They are set to be flown away to an exotic location as a gift from their family, but exactly where is being kept a surprise.

Francis, 82, said: "I am a very lucky man and we are lucky enough to have had good health together and to have raised a wonderful family. It has been 60 glorious years."

'Acute fears' over schools facing cuts, says Winnick

WALSALL MP David Winnick says Government ministers 'need to realise' the seriousness of 'acute fears' expressed by schools over potential funding cuts.

Figures from the National Union of Teachers and the Association of Teachers and Lecturers indicate that the borough could lose more than £19 million in school budgets over the next two years.

Mr Winnick says he has received more emails about this issue than any other regarding education since he has been a member of Parliament.

The MP, who has been in his position since 1979, expressed disappointment that the Chancellor hadn't moved to reassure head teachers in any way during his latest budget speech.

He said: "It will be deeply disappointing to all the schools in my constituency, as well as elsewhere, that the proposed government changes in the funding formula will still go ahead."

"While ministers are planning to go ahead with encouraging grammar schools, existing secondary and primary schools face budget cuts at a time when costs are actually due to increase by over eight per cent between now and 2019/20."

"It is estimated in the Walsall borough alone, the cuts would amount to more than £19 million in school budgets in the next two years. Moreover, this is in a situation where more than half of secondary schools are already running deficit budgets here. I have received more emails on this matter than on any educational issue since I have been a Member of Parliament."

Tonight's the night as Rod fans get together

FANS of Sir Rod Stewart gathered in force in Walsall to celebrate the music of the Scottish stalwart, who has been making music across seven decades.

Hundreds turned out donning dodgy blonde wigs and tartan kilts as The Rod Stewart Fan Club Big Weekend returned for it's annual get together over the weekend at The Saddlers Club.

This year marked the 17th annual event of the Rod Stewart Fan Club, with it taking residence at the The Saddlers Club for the seventh consecutive year.

Fans from Walsall to Mexico, with a shared passion for the music of the 72-year-old former Faces frontman, sang along to hits including Maggie May, Stay With Me, Sailing and Some Guys Have All The Luck.

Mary Cady, Rod Stewart's sister, turned up in support of the meeting, which has raised thousands of pounds for charity. As a regular attendee of the meetings, she got on stage to pick out various raffle winners.

Fans Steve Molineux, Susan Molineux, Paul Farrow and Laura Farrow

Extravaganza

Performing on the night were Cregan & Co, featuring Jim Cregan, former co-writer and guitarist with Rod Stewart.

They were accompanied by former X Factor semi-finalist, Ben Mills, and the outfit have even received praise from the great man himself.

Fans young and old turned out to the weekend extravaganza and co-organiser Dave Reddy, who has lost count of the amount of times he has seen Rod, says it is the fans who motivate him to put on the event each year.

He said: "Some people come on the Friday not knowing anyone and by the end they've make long term friendships, that's what it's all about."

More than £100,000 has been raised for various charities during this time with proceeds from this year's event going to Parkinson's UK. Plans are already in place for next year's event, also due to take place at Walsall on the first weekend of March in 2018. Details of next year's event will be released in due course at rodstewartfc.com.

Council chief to step down

THE chief executive of Walsall Council has announced he will retire later this year. Paul Sheehan is due to retire after working in local government for over 41 years – nine of which have been spent in Walsall.

The Chief Executive announced his retirement to Walsall Council employees last Tuesday afternoon and informed key partners on Wednesday morning.

He has overseen one of the most troubling times for local government and steps down at a time when the authority needs to make £86 million in savings over the next four years.

Mr Sheehan said: "I am proud to have been a local government officer for over 41 years; the final nine here in Walsall."

"I have chosen the timing of this decision to enable a smooth handover towards the end of this year."

"It has been an honour to be the chief executive of Walsall Council, to serve the people of Walsall and to work with so many talented and committed councillors, staff and partners."

£500k hope to improve 'outdated' CCTV system

CCTV cameras in Walsall are 'past their best' and 'not fit for purpose', it has been revealed.

Council bosses are now looking to spend more than £500,000 to update them and bring in new technology. According to a council report, the borough's entire camera system is 'outdated' and 'in a poor state of repair'.

Around 90 static cameras and 26 mobile cameras fixed to council vehicles – covering crime and anti-social behaviour hotspots – are monitored around the clock from a local authority base in Walsall Wood.

Council bosses are proposing to pay Transport for West Midlands £255,133 in 2017/18 and £288,707 in 2018/19 to buy, staff and maintain new mobile camera units and also improve the quality of cameras already in use.

The move will save the authority £32,480 in 2017/18 and £70,591 each year after that for seven years, when compared with how much it would cost to continue running the service in-house, according to the report.

Community chief, Councillor Julie Fitzpatrick, said: "We need better systems in order to prevent and detect crime, and in doing so, provide reassurance to people who live and work in Walsall."

Councillor Mike Bird, who launched an investigation into the quality of the borough's CCTV in 2015, said: "Police have said to us on numerous occasions that the quality of CCTV coming from our cameras was not good enough to hold up in court."

Car break-ins spark warning

A SPATE of break-ins to cars and vans in part of Walsall has sparked a warning for owners. West Midlands Police has said there has been an increase in incidents in Bloxwich warning that thieves can force their way into vehicles in as little as 10 seconds.

However the force has declared most break-ins are preventable and issued a checklist for owners.

PCSO Ian Palmer said: "There has been a recent increase in vehicle crime in the Bloxwich area most vehicle crime is preventable. It can take as little as 10 seconds for a thief to steal something from your car."

He urged people to remove everything from the car including jackets and reminded owners to ensure they close sunroofs and windows.

Sevens event to aid Beacon centre

A SEVEN-A-SIDE football tournament is being held in Walsall to raise funds for the Beacon Centre for the Blind in Sedgley. It takes place at Wolverhampton university's Walsall Campus on Monday from 9am to 5pm.

Pupil ready for new £1 coin on the way

David Pearce, of Highgate with his design

THE new £1 coin designed by a Walsall student will be in circulation next week, with millions currently rolling off the production line each day.

The coin, designed by David Pearce, a pupil of Queen Mary's Grammar School, will be released for public use on Tuesday.

David, aged just 15 at the time, won a competition in 2014 to design the coin's face, which will feature the Welsh leek, the Scottish thistle, the Northern Irish shamrock and the English rose emerging from a royal coronet. He said at the time he was 'really excited' and now his coin is just days away from being released to the public.

The coins are being made at the Royal Mint in Llantrisant, South Wales, at a rate of three million per day. The coins have hi-tech security features, including a hologram. It might take a little while for people to start seeing the new £1 coins in their change as they gradually filter into general use.

The old round pound, which was introduced more than 30 years ago, will be in circulation alongside the new coin until it ceases to be legal tender on October 15.

£1 coins were first launched on April 21, 1983 to replace £1 notes, although they are still in use in the Channel Islands. The Royal Mint has produced more than two billion round pound coins since that time.

The production of the new coins follows concerns about round pounds being vulnerable to sophisticated counterfeiters.

Around one in every 30 £1 coins in people's change in recent years has been fake.

Officers in major swoop over charity shops raids

DOZENS of police officers launched early-morning raids on a suspected gang of thieves that has targeted charity shops and firms around the Black Country in burglaries totalling £500,000.

Officers used battering rams to enter properties to arrest suspects on suspicion of conspiracy to burgle, after shops and factories were hit in Wolverhampton, Dudley, Walsall and parts of Staffordshire.

Six addresses were raided as part of the police fightback against the gang, which has been linked to 67 burglaries.

Operation Abriel saw officers swoop at two homes in Low Hill, Wolverhampton, two in Bilston, one in Stow-lawn, one in Willenhall, and one at flats in Heath Town, Wolverhampton.

Four men were arrested as around 40 police officers took part in the operation.

Burglars are said to have dropped in through the roofs of the buildings they were targeting.

Factories

The raids took place from 7.30am on Monday, with the Chronicle's sister newspaper, the Express & Star given exclusive access to the swoops.

Det Insp Clair Langley, of Staffordshire Police, said: "This is a joint operation between West Midlands and Staffordshire Police.

"The suspects are believed to be involved in criminal burglaries, including those of charity shops and factories.

"We believe they access the buildings through the roof."

She said that the total value of the raids, which all happened between June last year and February this year, had reached £500,000.

"These have had significant impact on business premises particularly in relation to charity shops," she added.

"There have been break-ins overnight through roofs predominantly stealing safes and cash contents. Over a nine-month period we have 67 business targeted so it was important to make progress.

A man is led away from Longfield House, Heath Town, Wolverhampton

"They have made half a million since we started the operation. There was 40 police officers at work.

"We continue to work together to bring offenders justice. Those arrested are now in custody being interviewed today."

Officers took the arrested suspects into custody in Oldbury. They were a 22-year-old, from Longfield House, Heath Town, a 26-year-old from Moseley Road, Bilston, a 26-year-old from Foster Road, Low Hill, and a 47-year-old from Willenhall Road, Willenhall.

A total of six Compton Hospice charity shops have been targeted by thieves since December last year.

The branches affected were in Wolverhampton, Codsall, Brierley Hill, Willenhall and Cannock.

On March 1 this year, the would-be thieves smashed through a skylight at the Birches Bridge shop in Wolverhampton Road, Codsall.

They broke through a plastered wall inside, but left with nothing after being unable to get inside the safe. The damage at the shops has left the charity with a repair bill of more than £3,500.

Unopened

At the shop on Trysull Road in Merry Hill, Wolverhampton, raiders got in on February 16 through a rear window. The safe was damaged, but unopened.

Only in two of the burglaries – at Skinner Street in Wolverhampton and High Street Brierley Hill on January

Police enter a property at flats in Bilston

29 and February 8 – did thieves manage to take the safe.

During a burglary in Church Street, Cannock, in December, would-be thieves broke the alarm and CCTV system, but escaped with nothing. The shop in Stafford Street in Willenhall was broken in to between Christmas and New Year's Eve – but again the thieves caused damage to a rear door, sorting room and the safe, but left empty-handed.

Days after the sixth break-in, more than £1,000 was donated to the charity through an online appeal.

A total of 88 people made the donations, with charity staff taking to social media to thank those that had given funds.

The charity provides care to people in the Black Country, Staffordshire and East Shropshire.

HS2 hub hopes for 77,000 jobs

AN ambitious 20-year growth plan based on the arrival of HS2 in the West Midlands could create up to 77,500 jobs, it has been claimed.

The plan for the UK Central Hub – which takes in Solihull, Birmingham Airport, the NEC, Jaguar Land Rover and the proposed new HS2 Interchange Station – was unveiled last week at the MIPIM international property show in Cannes.

Supporters say it could add £4.1 billion to the local economy, taking in 775,000 sq m of development land and provide space for up to 4,000 homes.

Third of farmers hit by dumping

MORE than a third of farming businesses in the West Midlands and Staffordshire claim to have had illegal waste dumped on their land in the last three years, research shows.

An awareness campaign has been launched in the affected communities who are largely unaware that they are open to fines, prosecution and even imprisonment due to ignorance of the 'duty of care' law. A new survey commissioned by 'right Waste, right Place' shows owners are increasingly turning to councils for help.

Folk festival to feed fans' imagination

THE Imagined Isle folk festival is back in Birmingham Town Hall from May 12 to 14, featuring acts such as Dan Walshon Friday.

Mother issues meningitis alert as rash covers baby

By Jack Averty

BABY Ashley-Jay Greatorex is fighting back to health in hospital after a meningitis rash covered his body in a matter of hours when the glass test 'failed'.

Hundreds of people have been following the Support Baby Ashley Facebook group after his mother Anna Hanslow put out pictures of her poorly four-month-old to show how quickly the rash can spread.

The mother of four, from Walsall, is warning other parents to be aware that the potentially lethal condition does not always have the same symptoms and the glass test is not fail-safe.

But although Ashley is still poorly, the antibiotics are taking effect and his condition is improving. Anna told the Facebook group: "I'm so happy right now!! Although he still is poorly. He's doing a good job and I'm so proud of him!"

Covered

She told of her 'amazing little boy fighting his way through this' as Anna revealed that his infection levels were continuing to fall.

Ashley was taken to Walsall Manor Hospital after his mother noticed a few spots and a high temperature. Within 24 hours of the first spots appearing he was covered in a rash.

She said: "He started with a high temperature and he was fine until I noticed a few spots."

"They spread really quick. They were not flat or raised, it was a different rash to what doctors normally come across and they said they have never seen it spread so quick. They could not work out the rash at all."

After a string of tests Ashley was diagnosed with meningitis and septicaemia.

Anna said: "Watching my son be poorly like this is the last thing I want. But I'm here and I'm strong for my boy. No matter how much I cry I will

Symptoms to look out for

SYMPTOMS INCLUDE:

High temperature; A bulging soft spot; Heavy sleepiness; Fast or difficult breathing; Extreme shivering; 'Pin prick' rash marks; Vomiting or refusing to feed; Grunting sounds; Irritability; Cold hands and feet; A stiff body with jerky movements or else floppy and lifeless; Muscle aches or joint pain

What you should do:

The Tumbler Test - place a glass firmly against the rash. If you can still see the marks get help.

The Meningitis Research Foundation advises parents: "Trust your instincts. If you think your baby has meningitis or septicaemia get medical help immediately. Say that you are worried it could be meningitis or septicaemia."

always be here. Not being able to hold him properly is so hard."

"I'm trying to be so strong for him but I just want to break into a million crumbles and take this nasty disease away."

Parents are advised to run a glass over a rash and if it doesn't fade under the pressure it is a possible sign of blood poisoning caused by meningitis and getting medical attention is strongly recommended.

Ashley is expected to stay in hospital for at least another week until he is given the all-clear by doctors.

Anna and her partner Kieron hope their son's scare will raise awareness of meningitis and its symptoms.

She said: "I am giving some pictures to warn people it does not always start like they say it does. Please if anyone worries about it, go get checked as soon as possible."

As well as the Facebook site, being run by Anna's sister Beverley Summers, a Crowdfunding appeal has been set up to raise funds for Ashley's family.

Target

It is hoped up to £1,000 can be raised to get some treats for the family and hopefully send them on a mini-break when young Ashley recovers.

Barry Summers urged people on the Facebook group to donate saying: "If every follower that has joined the group gave just a £1 we will reach the target of £1,000 to help with food, parking fees and a luxury for my sister, partner and all four kids."

Advice on careers is praised by inspectors

PUPILS, staff and parents are celebrating after a school in a Black Country borough was rated as good in every area by inspectors.

Following a recent inspection at Aldridge School, the Tynings Lane site was found to be making good progress by Ofsted inspectors, while behaviour was noted as being good and the curriculum described as broad and balanced.

Inspectors said leaders and governors had a good understanding of the school's strengths and weaknesses and teachers had good subject knowledge. Students were also praised for being confident, considerate and proud of their school.

David Mountney, head teacher, said: "We really welcome the inspectors' findings which show we are good in all areas. We have maintained this since our previous inspection in times which are challenging for all schools."

Ofsted praised the school's sixth form students saying they are appreciative of the support they are given and make good progress in both academic and vocational qualifications.

They also praised the school's careers guidance, which was 'a particular strength'.

However to improve, the report says the school must consistently challenge the most able pupils and teachers must implement activities, which are well matched to all pupils.

Rubbish fire leads to damaged sheds

A GARDEN rubbish fire which contained aerosol cans got out of control spreading to two sheds and a fence.

Two fire crews were called to the home in Church Street, Bloxwich, around 7.10pm last Wednesday night.

They were there for around an hour tackling the flames.

Bloxwich watch commander Andrew Nicholls said: "I always say take rubbish to the tip, don't burn garden rubbish yourself."

Jail for woman in £9,000 fraud

A 58-YEAR-OLD Great Barr woman has been jailed for 14 weeks after admitting a £9,000 benefit fraud.

Belinder Kaur from Scott Road, pleaded guilty to three offences committed between 2010 and 2015, when she appeared at Wolverhampton Crown Court.

She was sent to prison by Judge Barry Berlin who told her: "You were warned that if you made false statements for benefits you would be prosecuted."

This was deliberate dishonesty. You knew perfectly well you should not have claimed these benefits."

Travel company scoops awards

BLACK Country Chamber of Commerce is celebrating Travelstar European as member of the week after the Walsall-based coach company won a number of prestigious awards at the National Express Awards 2016.

Those that they received at an awards night included the awards for Engineering Gold Standard, Operator of the Year and High Achievement – for the seventh consecutive year.

Opened in January 2017 by the Mayor of Walsall, the business has invested over £1million in new premises in Portland Street.

Children's care plan for lodge

A GUEST house in Walsall is set to become a care home under new plans recommended for approval. Horizon Care Education wants to turn Arden Lodge Guest House on Bloxwich Road into a home for children.

Young people up to the age of 18 would live in the home for between three and five years.

They would not have physical or mental impairment, but will have been 'adversely affected by circumstances and in need of a secure, stable and caring place to live'.

Club to swing in with jazz evening

THE Rotary Club of Walsall is hosting a jazz event tonight, Thursday.

The club is holding an evening of jazz, featuring Matt Ford and the Midlands Youth Jazz Orchestra, at Methodist Central Hall.

Tickets cost £15 with the event being held in support of the Glebe Centre in Walsall and Walsall Heart Care.

They are available from walsallevents.org.uk or in person from the offices of Fraser Wood, Walsall.

Boxes linked to drugs

BOXES of waste from cannabis production was dumped off a countryside lane near Aldridge.

The rubbish left on the roadside in Hobs Hole Lane was picked up by Walsall Council workers on Saturday. The council is investigating.

Walsall men jailed after guns found inside car

TWO Walsall men have been jailed for 15 years after hiding sawn-off shotguns under a car seat.

Yasir Nassir, aged 45, from Moncrieffe Street, and Kuldip Singh Atwal, 49, from Stafford Street, have been jailed for seven and eight years respectively for possessing firearms.

The pair were in a Citroen C3 driven by Nassir when they were pulled over by West Midlands Police officers around 5am on September 10 on Newtown Row in Birmingham city centre. Police spotted shotgun cartridges in the rear seat footwell and a search of the car uncovered two short-barrelled firearms, plus a starter pistol, hidden under the seats. The pair were arrested.

Subsequent searches of Nassir's home uncovered another shotgun, a silencer, two air rifles, pellets and blank 6mm cartridges. Both men were interviewed about the guns both in the home and in the Citroen but denied any knowledge and refused to answer any questions from officers.

However Nassir eventually went on to admit possessing firearms while Atwal was found guilty on the same offences at Birmingham Court Court.

West Midlands Police Detective Inspector Vanessa Eyles said the tough sentences should act as a warning to anyone possessing illegal firearms.

She said: "This was a great piece of police work: intelligence suggested the car was linked to firearms and the information proved spot on."

Both men have previous convictions for violent offences.

Caravan arson suspects bailed

TWO men have been bailed after a caravan went up in flames in what is believed to have been an arson attack.

The caravan was destroyed as the flames took hold on Sunday, March 12, in High Heath, Pelsall. It was believed to have been used on a building site and no-one was inside it at the time. Ten firefighters tackled the blaze in Spring Lane at around 2pm.

Chiefs described it as an intense fire, with flames also spreading to a nearby garden fence and shed.

Two youths were arrested in connection with the fire but bailed until April 9, pending further inquiries.

Watch commander Andrew Nicholls, from Bloxwich Fire Station, said: "It is believed to have been a catering van for builders."

Back to school for police chief's deputy

Ashley Bertie, with Great Barr students

ASSISTANT West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner Ashley Bertie went back to his roots with a visit to his former school.

The 25-year-old returned to Great Barr Academy, to deliver an inspirational speech to students. Ashley, who was head boy during his time at the Aldridge Road school, spoke about his role as Assistant PCC, Stop & Search, mentoring, active citizenship and issues that affect young people.

Mr Bertie said: "It was pretty surreal going back to my old school as it wasn't too long ago that I was there studying hard and playing cricket, basketball and football. But it was great catching up with my old teachers and I was truly humbled when the headteacher said she was going to put my picture up on the wall of fame.

"However, the best moment was definitely speaking to the students and seeing how engaged and enthusiastic they were. Birmingham is the youngest city in Europe and it is vital that we focus on our young people and the issues that affect them. By investing in our young people now and listening to their voice, we will reap the benefits in the future. I spoke about how I've introduced an education workshop across the region and how the number of searches has reduced considerably but the number of positive outcomes has actually gone up."

Headteacher Ingrid Abrahams added: "Ashley has achieved in a few years what others achieve in a lifetime.

"His humility and commitment in the realm of advocacy captured the imagination of both staff and students. It was a pleasure to have him back at Great Barr Academy."

£1,000 daily costs of shoplifters at Wilko

A TOWN centre Wilko store lost in the region of £1,000-a-day due to shoplifters, it has been revealed.

Neighbouring retailers including the likes of M&S and Debenhams have now demanded action, with the latter allegedly being targeted last Monday when a thief made off with 10 pairs of jeans.

The issues, concerning shops in Walsall town centre, came to light when council bosses met with store managers.

Speaking at a cabinet meeting council leader Sean Coughlan said: "We met with the town centre partnership who are suffering tremendously with people who have decided they are not going to work for what they get and instead they are going to go around and rob stores."

"In the run up to Christmas Wilko was losing £1,000 a day they said." Afterwards Councillor Coughlan spoke at greater length about the issues.

The leader said: "We met with the town centre partnership on Monday night about how we can regenerate the town centre."

Shoplifting

"The manager from M&S, Debenhams, and Wilko were there, all the big players, as well as the owner of the Saddlers Centre. They all said anti-social behaviour and shoplifting were a real problem in the town centre."

"The guy from Wilko was talking about the effect of opening up late prior to Christmas to generate sales, and the fact it also causes its own problems. The guy from Debenhams said someone had just walked into their shop and stole 10 pairs of jeans that day."

Councillor Coughlan declared the authority had a significant responsibility and role to play in doing their own work to deter thieves. He added: "We have been really good with things like travellers but there is more we need to do."

"M&S said they had lost their security provision but it was more efficient to bring it back."

"But to be honest there are things we can do especially in terms of working in partnership. We want a strategic view involving the traders, police and council about how we tackle these problems."

While the leader admitted Walsall had its own problems he said shoplifting was an issue everywhere. He said: "There are a few specific issues in Walsall and I honestly believe there are ways of dealing with those. But shoplifting is prevalent everywhere."

Fly-tipping crackdown as fines soar

There have been 5,389 incidents of fly-tipping in Walsall in the last year alone

COUNCIL bosses have rubber-stamped a 400 per cent increase to the amount fly-tippers can be fined in a bid to clean a Black Country town's 'dirty face'.

The on-the-spot punishments will rise to £400 from £80 from April 1 in Walsall. The cabinet approved the increase on Wednesday on the back of a report that revealed there had been 5,389 incidents of fly-tipping in the borough in the last year alone, amounting to nearly 3,000 tonnes of illegal waste which cost the council £408,000 to shift.

That sum does not even include large messes left behind by unauthorised encampments such as the piles of rubbish discarded on Delves Common last year when a large group of travellers ran riot in the area for more than a week.

Deputy Council Lee Jeavons also welcomed the new fines. He said: "It shows we are taking action. Council officers work very hard to get investments into the town but one of the things we are hearing from retailers who we are inviting in, is that they pick up on the dirty face of the town."

As well as the sterner punishments, Councillor Ian Shires called on the offenders to be named and shamed: "When we do get these interventions we should make them high profile. We shouldn't apologise for it."

What a fuss we all know we are the greater one

THERE has been a bit of a fuss about the Black Country being marketed as "Greater Birmingham" over at the annual regeneration jolly in the South of France.

While I normally recoil at any attempt to associate the Black Country with our noisy neighbours down the M6, on this occasion I think people are being a little bit harsh.

There's probably an innocent explanation. Indeed, I think it might be nothing more sinister than a simple typing error.

They meant to say Greater THAN Birmingham.

IN September 2013, Nicola Sturgeon told Scottish people to seize the "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity" and vote for separation from the UK in the following year's referendum.

Now she is demanding another vote.

Look, I know life expectancy isn't what it should be north up there, but I think three-and-a-half years is pushing it a bit, don't you?

TERRIBLE news from down-under. Apparently, unless a new deal can be struck with Channel 5, Neighbours could finally come to an end in the UK after 31 years. Now be honest, how many of you actually knew it was still going?

IMAGINE for one moment you worked at the London Evening Standard. Not a pleasant thought, I admit, having to live down in the Big Black Smoke, but work with me on this one.

Having given your all for a few decades, you have worked your way up the ladder, and then the vacancy for the editor appears – and is given to somebody with next to no experience of the industry, has no formal journalistic qualifications, but who used to be Chancellor of the Exchequer. That will be good for morale.

Frankly, I couldn't care less how many jobs George Osborne has. Being a backbench MP should never be anything more than a part-time job, and paid accordingly. It is the rise of the full-time MP that has created a generation of meddling career politicians with no experience of life outside Westminster.

What is ridiculous though is the way somebody so demonstrably under-qualified can walk straight out of Downing Street into such a difficult and demanding role.

The suspicion is that he won't really be editor at all, simply using the paper as a political platform while other, better qualified people actually do the work.

Still, for politicians wanting to bring those pesky newspapers to heel, there are worse ways than getting a few of your own in to run them. I bet Leveson wished he had thought of that.

It's the wealthy who objected to Hammond NI rises

Philip Hammond – humiliating U-turn was 'necessary to maintain voters' trust'

Judge Lindsey Kushner – only saying what a normal, loving parent would say

Nigel Farage – a blistering feud with the party's only MP Douglas Carswell

White Van Man – I don't think so

WAS anyone convinced, on Budget day, that the raging fury over the Budget was the authentic voice of White Van Man, roused to rebellion at the prospect of higher National Insurance payments? No, me neither. It all happened far too quickly. MPs simply didn't have time to consult their white-van supporters, even assuming they know any. But then we shouldn't assume that all self-employed folk are horny-handed sons of toil, nor that Chancellor Philip Hammond's U-turn in scrapping the NI rises will be celebrated in back-street pubs with pints of mild and a bag of crisps for the whippet. The term "self-employed" covers some extremely wealthy, well-connected and influential types, such as barristers, Fleet Street columnists and broadcasters who did not take kindly to Hammond's rises. History will record that this was a rebellion among white collars, not white vans.

I BET we were all delighted to see the lorry owned by a pair of despicable fly-tippers in Hertfordshire being sent to the crusher. Pity the fly-tippers weren't inside.

WHAT is the point of the continued existence of UKIP, now that voters endorsed the concept of Brexit in the referendum last June? You might think they would quietly and happily disperse under the banner of 'mission accomplished'. But no. UKIP does not disperse and it certainly does not do anything quietly. At the moment, they are engaged in a bitter and savage civil war of self-destruction that makes the troubles in the Labour Party seem tame by comparison. UKIP's former leader Nigel Farage is having a blistering feud with the party's only MP, Popeye the Sailor Man lookalike Douglas Carswell, who is said to be inching back towards his former party the Tories again.

YOUR kids are going out into town for the night. You tell them to take care. Or at least you do if you are a normal, loving parent. And that's what Judge Lindsey Kushner was doing when she noted on her last day in court that women and girls who get blind drunk tend to be targeted by would-be rapists. If you believe all you see, the judge was widely condemned for 'victim-blaming'. But that's simply not true. I bet 90 per cent of the population thoroughly agree with her. What we saw in the media was a contrived and artificial controversy.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

It was based on the views of a tiny number of campaigners and single-issue 'experts' who claim the judge's remarks may make women less likely to report rape. But Judge Kushner was desperately trying to prevent rapes happening in the first place, rather than picking up the pieces afterwards.

DOG walkers in wooded areas should stop using poo bags and adopt a "stick and flick" method, according to the Forestry Commission which has produced a poem to make the point: "If your dog should do a plop, take a while and make a stop / Just find a stick and flick it wide into the undergrowth at the side." I find myself also moved to verse, to point out the possible hazards of the new method: "Make sure that you've got lots of space / 'Cos stick-flicked **** goes all over the place."

PITY we didn't have a public naming competition for the Royal Navy's latest aircraft carrier which, as reported a few days ago, is overdue, over budget, understaffed and still waiting for its warplanes. HMS Whiteelephant McWhiteelephantface?

APPARENTLY we should all be more worried about nitrogen pollution than global warming. Yes, I know it's going to be hard after 20 years spent fretting about greenhouse gases but you don't want to be left behind in the anxiety stakes, do you? A charity called Plantlife claims air pollution caused by agriculture and engines is over-enriching our soil and encouraging the growth of "thuggish" plants such as nettles. Sorry to spoil the angst party but nettles are wonderful things. They are one of the most useful plants on the planet, rich in iron and vitamin C. You can eat them in salads, turn them into soup, brew them as tea or even turn them into nettle-yarn fabric. You could argue that an excess of nitrogen is giving us great bounty of a miracle crop. But that would be good news, and who wants that?

THE Scots were assured by their political leaders that the 2014 vote on independence from the UK would be a "once in a generation" referendum. They are now being told to expect another one in a year or so. This one will also be a "once in a generation" referendum – unless they vote the wrong way again.

HALF-watching the telly, I caught the Prime Minister telling the Commons about a "cattery trade delegation." I was heartened to think someone as busy as Mrs May could find time to chat with people providing holiday accommodation for cats. The delegation turned out to be Qatar.

MORE issues with the new £5 note. A reader writes: "Is it just me or does the new five-pound note have a life of its own?" He reports a problem with "escaping" fivers creeping out of his shirt pocket and wonders whether some curious reaction is going on between the polymers in the note and the polymers in the shirt material. Fascinating.

TALKING POINT

Attention! That's my Mother's Day wish

THERE is good news and bad news for my children as Mother's Day looms.

I do not want them to splash out on a bunch of flowers that will be considerably more expensive in the days before Mothering Sunday than at any other time of year with the exception, possibly, of Valentine's Day.

I do not want a novelty, twee gift such as a plaque or a vase with some motivational poem/message/logo on and I don't expect a huge and/or expensive card.

And I most certainly do not want to be wined and dined in an over-booked pub or restaurant. Inevitably tables are crammed together while the mass of increasingly bored children try to run around in the few gaps, adding to the wall of noise and the irritation that is already rising from the predictable wait as hordes of diners descend.

So that's the good news for my children. I am, if nothing else, a cheap date.

However, the bad news, they may think, is that I have to have their full, undivided attention for the day.

Despite the nauseating sentimentality and commercial hype today, Mother's Day was first celebrated in the UK in the 17th century which is long before America adopted it.

It began as Mothering Sunday and at a time when children were often sent away to work as servants or apprentices. It was considered important that children were allowed to visit their homes once a year. The time decided for the visit to home was the middle Sunday of the fasting period of Lent.

In these modern times, I consider myself lucky if I can pin my two teenagers down for one day a year – certainly when they are not busy staring at their hands – or rather the phones permanently in them.

Mother's Day, like Halloween or Valentine's Day, or even Christmas, is in danger of being swallowed up by the commercial opportunists. It has already been hyped up to such an extent that we just see it as another expense and more pressure to impress. Mother's Day doesn't even have the bonus of being a bank holiday.

Well I reject the hype – though that doesn't let my children totally off the hook.

On MY Mothering Sunday I want quality time with my children, I don't want to have to cook the dinner and I'd quite like the odd cuppa made for me too. I'd like to spend time chatting, maybe watch a film or take a walk, but most of all I want a relaxed day when none of us are rushing off or tied up.

Of course, Lent quickly leads into Easter and my children don't mind the hype if it means a great big colorful chocolate egg for them. So they might want to remember who gets that egg when planning my Mother's Day this year!

Open up these disused corridors

I COULDN'T agree more with Andy Street, regarding the opening of defunct railway routes. As he rightly states the West Midlands is snarled up with traffic as never before and yet we have these disused corridors in our midst that could greatly ease this problem.

Over the past two years a group of volunteers, have been trying to get the route between Walsall and Lichfield opened to over 400,000 people to use as a traffic free connection, either as a greenway, cycle track, tramway or railway, but so far have been thwarted by one excuse after another.

No money is of course the main one, despite millions being spent to keep the same line open under Brownhills Bridge, over the M6 Toll near Hammerwich, and the new bridge by Waitrose in Lichfield.

Another excuse is that made by a few residents who live along the track scared of anti-social behaviour, yet it is this same dereliction and abandonment that has greatly exacerbated this problem. A properly-funded and constructed route would offer protection for these properties and also increase the value if a little vision is applied.

Meanwhile MPs, county councillors, and council officials who are employed and well paid to provide these alternative modes of travel do nothing. Come on, stop spending money on pet projects that nobody wants.

Dissenters will face enforcers

THOSE who naively believed that they would be freed from over-interference from governments by voting to leave the EU should think again.

Michael Heseltine has been sacked for disagreeing with Theresa May and her backers and this is what we can all expect. This culture of shutting down dissenters is what we see as normal in China and North Korea and it will shortly be coming to a place near you.

If you do not agree with government actions be careful. The signs are all around us - you will have grammar schools - you will obey the manipulated views of a small majority.

This attitude will spread from the top down through the NHS, the police, large companies and so on. Forget freedom and prepare yourself for dictatorship.

Nowhere to turn for proper advice

WITH a total of 10 staff redundancy procedures commenced at the Citizens' Advice Bureau, thousands of local people across Walsall will be left with nowhere to turn to for help with resolving urgent and serious problems.

It is clear that the cuts imposed by Walsall Council's recent budget proposals will disrupt frontline and outreach services.

Just as local people struggle to cope with other reductions in council services and a massive increase in council tax and cost of living pressures.

Walsall CAB provide a vital lifeline when local people have debt, benefits or housing and employment worries.

The cruel irony is that a volunteer-based service which provides excellent value for money will save money in the long run.

Reducing staff and services means losing highly skilled dedicated staff and volunteers.

A tragic waste and a false economy, when you take into account the resources invested in creating trained volunteers who provide such an excellent, friendly and flexible service.

The cuts to this organisation are both short-sighted and wrong.

Would you rather have support from a trained and dedicated staff member or well supervised volunteer or a council administration worker?

Thousands have previously made their choice and chose the Walsall CAB.

Now, thousands will not have a choice and will not have somewhere to receive help.

Privatising dreams of candidate

WEST Midland Mayoral candidate Andy Street puts forward an intriguing idea in his publicity: "Using the John Lewis model of 'mutuals' to drive public sector reform.....give staff a stake in the success of the organisations."

Is that a great idea? Well, it's an old one; David Cameron toyed with it in 2011 but soon dropped it. In a 'mutual' like John Lewis, employees are part owners and share the profits. But where are the profits in schools and hospitals? And with no profits, where's the incentive for employees to make this work?

Of course, there could be profits - but only if all our schools, hospitals and council services were privatised! This 'mutual' idea is really privatisation in fluffy clothing. Andy Street should come clean: will he privatise all our West Midlands public services or not? We deserve to know.

Team lines up for praise

PRIOR to the recent school half term holiday the faded and indistinct yellow lines outside Rough Hay Primary School were a cause for concern. We value good road safety measures in Darlaston to keep our young people safe.

A big shout-out for Walsall Council Highways and Road Safety Team who completed an excellent refresh and paint job on our yellow lines in front of our school. Motorists please notice the parking restrictions!

Well done everyone involved. What a massive improvement. One that should save lives.

Colleges' merger is ruled out by bosses

A FORMAL merger between South Staffordshire College and Walsall College has been ruled out by their principals and governors.

They cited 'a number of complex and costly implications which would arise from bringing the two colleges together'.

There were also concerns that 'a newly merged college would take a considerable amount of time'. A merger had been proposed by the Department for Education (DfE) saying that South Staffordshire College, which had to make £2 million of cuts in 2015, would benefit from the 'financial strength' of its Walsall counterpart.

A report as part of the Black Country and Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire further education area reviews stated the merger would create a college with a combined £59m turnover.

Discussions between South Staffordshire College, which incorporates the Cannock, Lichfield, Tamworth and Rodbaston campuses, and Walsall College, began last year. Bosses have since been working together to determine whether a merger would benefit students, businesses and the communities they serve.

But they have now concluded that 'a formal merger is not the best solution at the current time'.

A statement on behalf of South Staffordshire's principal Graham Morley and chairman of governors Ray Faulkner as well as Walsall's principal Jatinder Sharma and chairman of governors Allan Pinnegar reads: "Both organisations will continue to collaborate and work together outside of the complexity of a formal merger."

South Staffordshire College was last rated 'requires improvement' overall by Ofsted but the Government had hoped the move would improve it further with Walsall College last declared 'outstanding'.

Awarded Jacob goes feet first for musical

Leading man for Footloose, right, Jacob Kohli, aged 16, with his most promising singer under 18's award and Ella Colman

A VIBRANT slice of America is coming to the Black Country when the musical Footloose is performed next month.

The production is by Bilston Operatic Youth Company, an arm of Bilston Operatic Company.

It will be at Dormston Mill Theatre in Sedgley, starting from April 4 for five nights at 7.30pm.

The story follows a young man who moves to a small southern town and protests the town's ban against dancing. The film was originally made in 1984 with Kevin Bacon, and Lori Singer and then remade in 2011.

This is the third production for the youth company, which now has 45 members and only started out three years ago.

They include Jacob Kohli, who is aged 16, and comes from Finchfield, who recently received an award for Most Promising Singer under-18s.

Chairman Brenda Arnold said: "We chose Footloose because it was a good show for young people."

"It is very lively and a lot of fun for the members to get involved in."

Bus firm puts blindness issues in the driving seat

NATIONAL Express drivers were given first hand experience of what it was like using buses if you are blind or partially sighted.

The drivers wore simulation spectacles which imitated three common sight conditions – and then were told to get on the bus.

Meanwhile, campaigners from the Royal National Institute of Blind People found themselves in the driving seat as they got a taste of what it was like for the bus drivers.

The Swap with Me experience took place at the National Express garage in Walsall as the company signed up to the RNIB Bus Charter to ensure services are accessible for customers with sight loss. The bus operator has pledged its support for the charter, which sets out 13 commitments it will make to improve bus travel.

Cataracts

To mark this occasion the Swap with Me event was held when both National Express drivers and managers, and blind and partially sighted campaigners swapped places to learn from each other's experiences.

Drivers donned the simulation spectacles to see what it was like for people suffering from age-related macular degeneration, cataracts and retinitis pigmentosa. They were then assisted by RNIB campaigners to board and navigate their way around the bus.

The campaigners also had the opportunity to sit in the driver's seat and experience what it's like to communicate with passengers through the driver's screen.

Peter Coates, Managing Director of National Express West Midlands, said: "Our drivers are all trained to help our disabled customers use the buses safely, easily and confidently.

Paul Bryce tries out the driver's seat during the National Express event

Campaigners and staff members during the Swap with Me Walsall event

We are very happy to demonstrate our commitment by signing up to RNIB's Bus Charter.

"We'd like to thank RNIB for organising this Swap with Me event. It's really brought home to our drivers how they can help our blind and partially sighted customers to use the buses more easily."

Natalie Doig, RNIB campaigns officer, said: "Blind and partially sighted people rely on bus services to get to work, visit friends and family, and be part of the community. Buses are a vital lifeline bringing independence to many people with sight loss."

To find out more about RNIB's Bus Charter visit www.rnib.org.uk/bus or call RNIB's campaigns hotline on 020 7391 2123.

Goldie's years to be outlined in new memoir

FROM the darkest depths of the West Midlands care-home system to collecting an MBE from Buckingham Palace – Goldie is set to release a memoir detailing his extraordinary life.

All Things Remembered, set to be released by Faber on November 2, will tell the story of how Clifford Joseph Price became Goldie, one of the most influential figures in British music over the last 30 years.

The man himself has promised it will be a 'book like no other', with details of his early days in Walsall and the Black Country given equal attention to his glory years.

Prior to this, on June 16, Goldie is set to release his first studio album in almost 20 years entitled 'The Journey Man'.

Speaking about the 'gonzo memoir', he said: "Don't wish too hard, kid, it might come true. Where am I? I'm on the stage at Ronnie Scott's, with the band bouncing off the end of my fingertips, the alchemy's flowing and I'm making the best music of my life and trying to understand where this all went right."

"All Things Remembered is not just the story of how and why, it's everything from the children's homes to the Whispering Wheels roller-disco to rolling with the graffiti kings of New York to writing with David Bowie to reinventing myself as the Dorian Gray of breakbeat."

Maria Garbutt-Lucero, of Faber, said: "It is an explosive story of abuse, revenge, graffiti, gold teeth, sawn-off shotguns, car crashes, hot yoga, absent fatherhood, and redemption through reality TV."

Olympics dressage star opens factory

A WALSALL manufacturing firm has been given the Olympic seal of approval after a silver medallist opened its new factory.

Dressage medal winner Spencer Wilton, who scooped the runners-up medal at last year's Rio games, opened Fairfax Saddles new factory in Bloxwich last week.

Fairfax makes saddles, bridles and girths, and his visit to the new factory gave Wilton the chance to thank the staff for their help in his Olympic success.

Flat-pack church's milestone

WORSHIPERS that have helped keep a 'flat-pack' church alive and kicking for decades have marked its 130th anniversary.

The Church of Christ The King, on Lichfield Road in Rushall, was built as a temporary place of worship to reach the working population of the parish back when it was first set up in 1886.

However, it was officially recognised as a place of worship the following year on March 8, 1887.

Locally, it is known as the 'tin tabernacle' and is still an active place of worship.

Concert

It was one of many 'flat-pack' churches that went up around the country during the Victorian era, but is one of very few still used today.

To mark the anniversary, members of the congregation were treated to a concert from the Walsall Harmonic Male Voice Choir and a special Sunday service followed by lunch.

Michael Blakemore, who has been a member of the church for more than 60 years, said: "We are very proud that we are keeping our small church alive after all of these years, it is a great source of pride for our village."

"It was one of many of its kind to go up around the country so people could have easier access to a place of worship, but not many, if any are still active today."

"This church is used by the next generation, so we keep it active ready for it to be passed to them."

The church is the daughter venue to the Rushall Parish Church of St Michael, one mile away.

"I would imagine ours is probably the most active, anyway. We have the same services as a regular church and the same atmosphere, but the building is different."

"It doesn't matter where you are practicing your religion, as long as you are true while you do it and that is proved here."

"We had a lovely weekend to celebrate our 130th anniversary, the male voice choir show was packed to capacity."

Councillor is under fire for 'foreign' comments

PHEASEY residents have been labelled 'foreign' and 'alien' by a councillor having her say on proposed boundary changes.

Councillor Eileen Russell, a Labour member for the St Matthews area, told the Boundary Commission she approved of the Pheasey ward being 'hived off' from Walsall to a Birmingham Erdington constituency under proposals, which could be in place by the 2020 general election.

But her comments have since prompted a fierce backlash.

Councillor Russell, speaking at a hearing in Birmingham, said: "There are strong connections with Blakenall ward and Birchills and Leamore, to the town centre, and I think the hiving off of the Pheasey area to another constituency is a good idea, because people from that area are always seen as being a bit foreign, really, if you know what I mean."

Apology

Assistant commissioner Margaret Gilmore responded saying: "With a small 'F', I think is what you probably mean."

To which Councillor Russell answered: "It is, yes. Alien, I could have said, and it has been good for us having a female MP (Valerie Vaz) who represents all sections of the community happily, and I think that is really all that needs to be said."

But those from the Pheasey area, including Conservative member and former leader Mike Bird, have demanded a full public apology.

He said: "It is very offensive to people in Pheasey. People in an elected position should engage their brains before speaking. We did find it quite offensive quite honestly. We want more than just an apology. She needs to stand up in full council and apologise to us members and the residents."

Councillor Russell said she apologised for any offence caused but when asked by reporters if she would have used different words in hindsight the St Matthews representative said: 'no', adding: "My words have been taken completely out of context. They were just throw-away remarks at the end of the meeting."

"I just meant the character of people in different towns and different countries is very different. I never intended to upset anyone. I most definitely apologise if I offended people but I never meant anything by it. But people who were in the room with me knew what I meant. Someone said to me after they understand people from Walsall have a special character. I am an honest person. Perhaps I should have been thinking more, but I didn't think for any moment I would cause offence."

The West Midlands could lose six Parliamentary seats by the 2020 general election as part of proposed changes.

Thousands of jobs and homes on way

THOUSANDS of jobs and homes will be created as part of a new £53 million scheme to revamp former industrial sites in the Black Country.

The cash will be available over the next four years to deliver 1,600 new houses and 126,000 sq m of new commercial floor space across the region. It will create 1,800 new jobs.

Dozens of brownfield sites across the region will be decontaminated and brought back into use as part of the Land Funds scheme.

Bosses at the Black Country Local

Enterprise Partnership (LEP) said it would free up more land for development and housing across the region, and could lead to additional investment of £97m if successful.

The funding has been pledged following a successful bid from the LEP to the West Midlands Combined Authority (WMCA), which has earmarked £342m worth of schemes including the Black Country Garden City project.

Councillor Sean Coughlan, leader of Walsall Council and WMCA lead on land commission, said: “This has been something we have been keen to get off the ground for a long while.

“The Black Country is in the unenviable position that as a result of our great industrial heritage we have been saddled with a lot of land that is currently unfit to develop. The funding will enable us to address this issue and attract investment from the private sector as a result. It is also in keeping with our message that we don’t want to build on greenbelt land.”

Bosses say they are in the process of highlighting suitable sites.

Benefit gig for tragic teenager sells out

A CHARITY concert for a brave teenager who died in early 2014 after a seven-year fight with a brain tumour has sold out.

Aldridge youth charity event BENefit Gig returns for its fourth year tomorrow, Friday, in the week which would have marked Ben Sambrook's 19th birthday.

The Aldridge student passed away in February 2014 at the age of 14 following years of fighting a brain tumour, going through gruelling surgery and treatment.

Just 10 days before his death, his friends held the first BENefit Gig to raise awareness of the disease and money for brain tumour charities.

Julie Homravy, who is helping to promote the gig, which will be held at the Killock club in Aldridge, said: “Ben’s wish was for the gig to continue – to raise money and to give young people of Aldridge the opportunity to showcase talent and to have a local, safe night out.

“The event has now become an annual event and attracts audience members and bands from schools and colleges all around the region.”

This year, Aldridge School’s ‘Interact Club’, a group of 6th formers committed to local fundraising, have also been promoting the event, which is likely to sell out for the second year running. Sunday 44, a Walsall six-piece band will return to headline the line-up.

Birmingham band The Real Cool are looking forward to making their first appearance at BENefit Gig, with more sets from Aldridge bands Underground Storm and Archers.

Ben’s younger sister Emily Sambrook will headline the Aldridge Media Acoustic Stage.

All profits from the event are going to Brain Tumour Support.

Ellie to lead way as Scouts ambassador

Newly-appointed Scouts Ambassador Ellie Simmonds

WALSALL Swimming sensation Ellie Simmonds will be helping young people go for gold in her new role as a Scout Ambassador. The gold medal winning Paralympian from Aldridge will raise awareness of Scouts' work to help young people develop skills for life alongside four other ambassadors. Her fellow new ambassadors include Olympic gold medalist Helen Glover, TV presenters Anita Rani and Steve Backshall, and adventurer Megan Hine.

They join current Scout Ambassadors, including Chris Evans, Ed Stafford and Julia Bradbury, as positive role models for young people. Chief Scout, Bear Grylls, was proud to welcome the five ambassadors to the Scouts family. He said: "Like our other volunteers and supporters, they are incredible role models for young people, embodying our values and inspiring the next generation."

"Each of them brings their own unique skills and talents and I know will help shine a light on Scouting's amazing work. Thank you to each and every one."

The five ambassadors will be encouraging more adults to join as volunteers. As testament to Scouting's popularity, there are over 46,000 young people on waiting lists around the country, meaning more volunteers than ever are needed to help with the demand and give young people the opportunity to join the Scout Movement.

Tim Kidd, UK chief commissioner for Scouts, said: "As flexible volunteers themselves, they show how supporting Scouting can fit around busy lives. I wish Ellie, Anita, Megan, Helen and Steve well on their new journey and look forward to working with them."

Chiefs reject scheme to boost cash for parades

COUNCIL bosses have rejected a proposal to stomp up more money for remembrance parades across Walsall.

A scrutiny group on the authority had reviewed the situation and recommended traffic costs for events be split 50/50 between the council and office of the West Midlands Police and Crime and Commissioner.

By Carl Jackson

Their report said: "The Working Group believes ensuring that those who have lost their lives in conflict are remembered is highly important and, even in these austere times, the PCC and council should do what they can to ensure that Remembrance Day parades continue long into the future."

But at a meeting on Wednesday cabinet bosses ruled against changing existing arrangements which sees the council pay 30 per cent of the costs.

Council leader Sean Coughlan said: "This cabinet made its position clear that despite challenging budgets we were prepared to assist with 30 per cent of the costs."

"This stands for this year. But because we have set out a four-year budget the following two years will be covered as well which gives certainty to organisers. This council and the police have organised special meetings in April, June and September so that these important events are given priority.

"We will do all in our power to reduce costs from these events and still keep people safe. Uncertainty about these events will not help anyone."

The scrutiny group also called on the council to explore the opportunity of parades being organised by council managers for areas of the borough. Their report added: "Further to this, investigations should take place into any suggestions that could assist the long term sustainability of Remembrance Day parades."

"This should include establishing whether Remembrance Day parades could be organised under the auspices of a Town Centre or Area Manager."

Filling an arena . . . ? It's not Impossible

He's the first to admit he could have ended up on the 'scrapheap' for good, but James Arthur is reclaiming his dreams. The singer talks to The Ticket about growing up, and why arena tours and a self-help book are up next.

The night before the Brits last month, James tweeted that if anyone had told him a year ago he'd be up for two awards, his response would have been, 'F**k off'.

And who could blame him? His tumultuous period after winning The X Factor back in 2012 was well-documented. He rowed with fellow musicians online, offended the LGBT community and got dropped by Syco, Simon Cowell's record label.

It all read like a tale of self-destruction, rather than one of music success.

But now the Middlesbrough-born 29-year-old is back – and as far as surprise turnarounds go, he's crafted a career-revival that bows down only to Craig David's. He'll bring his solo tour to plays Birmingham's O2 Academy on Friday, March 24, and is on the line-up for V Festival in Weston Park in August.

James may not have taken any gongs home from the Brits but says it was an 'honour' to be nominated. Before that, his sophomore album, Back From The Edge – released in October, shot to number one in the charts, as did lead single Say You Won't Let Go; he's back on the books at Syco, and has just started on a UK tour that runs throughout March.

MELTDOWN

"It's mind-blowing," he mutters softly, rolling his rings around his fingers as he speaks.

"At the Brits two years ago, Jimmy Carr got up and made some crack about me having a meltdown, and I remember watching it, thinking, 'I am a joke in this country, there's no coming back from this'.

"Not only was I an X Factor winner that got dropped by Syco, and when that happens you're never heard of again, but everyone thought I was a clown. I was in those 'where are they now' articles and I was like, 'F**k me, I'm that guy, I'm on the scrapheap'."

James credits his escape from the overcrowded pop scrapheap to a spirit forged through his unbalanced upbringing.

"I remember when my parents put me up for foster care and no one gave a f**k about me. I've been a survivor for so many years, I've always felt like I've been trying to survive and always found a way to climb out of the s**t. That's just been a theme of my life, it's the mentality I've had to get out of the mire."

Opening up about that journey – from living in a bedsit, to winning The X Factor, and then watching it all crumble down around him – he says it left him feeling 40 or 50 years old.

"It's like I've been around for a long time, and to some people it might seem a bit bizarre me saying, 'I'm back from the edge', but it is wild when you think about it."

He says the comeback was fuelled by his on/off girlfriend, professional dancer Jessica Grist.

"I pushed everyone away, I ignored everyone. It was just me and Jess, who was so supportive and helped me through a million panic attacks and a million calling ambulances."

James has suffered from 'crippling' panic attacks since first

Back from the brink – James's new tour sold out in 10 minutes appearing on X Factor, and reveals he has plans to pen an autobiography that will also serve as a self-help book for fans who endure similar issues.

Music's helped him cope with his anxiety, he says, and he wants to use his public platform to inspire others who feel overwhelmed.

"I'm really passionate about it and I really care," James explains. "My message to those that do have it [anxiety] is, I know regular things can be so difficult – going to the shop, just going outside – but I'm doing it. And I'm having to go out and be judged by it and by the world. So if I can travel to France and play a gig in a train station with thousands of people around, then you can get up and go to the shop, buy a pint of milk and you will survive, you'll be all right."

As for returning to Syco – the label reportedly wanted him back after Simon Cowell listened to James's second record – the singer says he initially wanted to reject their offer, but relented because he's a 'sucker for a story'.

"When they asked me to come back, I thought, 'Well I'm number one on iTunes already, so f**k you', but I'm a massive fan of fairy tales and underdog stories. I'm the one person in history that they came back to, I like that that will be written, it's a bit of an ego thing.

I pushed everyone away, I ignored everyone. It was just me and Jess

"I felt like I had to prove myself to them, to let them know how good I am, how mature I've become and how much I've grown up."

For James, that sense of maturity means having more diplomacy when dealing with the label's A&R – those responsible for looking after musicians and their output.

"I'd never experienced A&R before and it p**ed me off. I hated A&R. I was like, 'Don't tell me how to make music, I've just won The X Factor, have a bit of faith in me – I'm James Arthur, I'm the best thing that's ever come from this show. I'm gonna make you a lot of money'," he admits.

"But that's not how it works. If you're signed to a major label, you have an A&R, they do have to give opinions and if I was left to structure songs, we'd have eight-minute, obscure left-of-centre tracks."

He's pleased that Back From The Edge's success means he can now perform some different songs live. No doubt his fans felt the same: James's UK tour sold out in just over 10 minutes.

"We could've done arenas this time," he says, "but I'm happy because I love to do those packed out rooms."

If his current winning streak continues, he'll be playing those arena tours in no time...

On tour – New Model Army

Rock stalwarts spring back after release of album Winter

STALWARTS of the alternative rock scene for more than 35 years, New Model Army are back with a tour that brings them to Bilston's Robin 2 venue on Saturday.

The tour comes after releasing latest album Winter with customary contrariness at the height of last summer.

Formed by Justin Sullivan in Bradford in 1980, New Model Army's beginnings were inspired by punk rock and the incendiary atmosphere of the times.

Since then, they have had a long, creative and eventful journey. They have been massively influential in post-punk, folk-rock, political-rock, goth, metal and all kinds of musical sub-cultures but have steadfastly refused to belong to any club that would have them as members.

NMA have built up an almost religious devotion amongst fans. Having grasped early on that the Internet was going to revolutionise the music industry, from the mid-1990s they set out on the now fashionable wholly independent path of controlling all aspects of their output. As a result, they have outlasted most of their peers.

Winter was released on the band's own Attack Attack label. This album saw New Model Army receive the best critical response of their career and top 30 chart positions in UK and Germany.

The album is a powerful and emotionally intense body of work. Says founder, lead singer and main songwriter Justin Sullivan: "I think Winter has a really strong identity. It is very much the sound of people in difficult places, something that so many of us can relate to at the moment, on a lot of different levels. We made a deliberate choice in mixing it to sound more aggressive and a little less polished."

Originally formed as a three piece, the current five piece features Michael Dean on drums, Dean White on keyboards and guitar, Marshall Gill on guitar and Ceri Monger on bass.

Tickets for New Model Army, supported by Under A Banner, at the Robin 2 cost £20 in advance or £22 on the door.

I'm just a normal bloke – Mouth of the South

AFTER a sell-out autumn tour, the star of BBC TV's Live At The Apollo, Mock The Week and Channel 4's 8 Out Of 10 Cats, Rob Beckett is back on the road touring the UK.

The 31-year-old comic from South London, nicknamed 'the Mouth of the South' due to his toothy grin, is one of the most popular comedians in the country, quick-witted with a matey likability.

"I just try and be a normal bloke," observes Rob, who is the popular host of the Absolute Radio show, Rock'n'Roll Football.

"At the end of the day, we're just chatting on stage. I'm genuinely grateful that people come to see me. If it wasn't for the audience, I wouldn't have a jet-wash, I'd just have an ordinary hose!"

"I've done hundreds of low-paid jobs in my time. I used to work in a flower market carrying around bags of compost. So the fact that I can now put my face on a poster and people will turn up for the show makes me so pleased."

The comedian, who between 2012 and 2014 co-presented ITV2 spin-off show I'm a Celebrity...Get Me Out of Here! NOW!, says his rapport with audiences stems from his natural curiosity.

"I'm just nosy! I love talking to the audience and getting them involved. I really like hearing their stories."

Another element that keeps his Mouth of the South show fresh is the fact that Rob's material is constantly evolving.

The stand-up says: "I don't want to be living in fear of altering a routine. I'd rather change it and let it progress. I enjoy that much more. That's how I can do 200 shows on a tour because it's always growing and changing."

If I didn't do that, I'd have gone mad by now."

On tour Rob will be covering such down-to-earth, subjects as holidays, Christmas, cold calls and nights out. His routines are taken from his own life.

"I enjoy making people laugh. I'm as funny as I can be for 90 minutes. I try and take people's minds off things for an hour and a half. If you ever stop enjoying that, that's the moment to give up."

He adds: "Before I did stand-up, I'd always been rubbish at everything. I was doing all sorts of terrible jobs on the minimum wage and living in a grotty flat in Lewisham."

"Then I started doing comedy, and all of a sudden I finally found something I was good at and I'm not letting it go."

Rob comes to Birmingham Town Hall on Saturday (April 8). See www.thsh.co.uk or call 0121 780 3333.

Brothers set to spread some joy at O2 Institute

INFLUENTIAL Scottish rock band The Jesus & Mary Chain, AKA Reid brothers Jim and William (pictured), release Damage and Joy, their first album for 19 years today and play Birmingham O2 Institute on March 31.

The Blossoms had a great 2016, playing Glastonbury, headlining their first UK tour and hitting the no1 spot with their eponymous debut album. See them at Birmingham O2 Academy on Wednesday (March 29).

Let's hope it's T-shirt weather when Liverpool's indie popsters Circa Waves play Brum's O2 Institute on Thursday (March 30), following the release this month of second album Different Creatures.

Acerbic Lee set to provide comedy

AFTER several years of his BBC TV show Stewart Lee's Comedy Vehicle, Content Provider is acerbic Shropshire-born Lee's first new full-length show since the award-winning Carpet Remnant World. It is being staged at the Symphony Hall, Birmingham, on Monday and Tuesday night.

Other comedy highlights are in Wolverhampton with Ignacio Lopez and Simon Emanuel at the Grand Theatre's Encore Lounge tomorrow (Friday); then Harry Hill's sometime assistant and Albert Square resident Charlie Baker at Wolverhampton Slade Rooms on Saturday.

Rio gives a revealing insight into his personal life

Rio Ferdinand looked amazed when he sat down to address academics at Oxford Union a couple of years ago.

He'd spent nights worrying about the content of his speech, wondering if he had any common ground with the students. Then he realised they were all people that excelled in their field.

"I always knew from a young age that I wanted to be the best," he told them. So he set his sights on Man United, and wound up fulfilling his goal. Fun intended.

Fear of failure is what drove Rio on. From West Ham he moved to Leeds United "for a small amount of money" and became captain within a couple of months.

By the time he was playing at the World Cup in Japan, it was clear he'd impressed Alex Ferguson, who decided to take him to Manchester United.

Being an acclaimed footballer was a dream come true for Ferdinand. Little wonder his rags-to-riches story inspired many.

With a successful career and more than a few quid in the bank, he seemed to have it all, including a happy marriage to Rebecca and three kids, Lorenz, Tate, and Tia.

The couple had met while he was playing for West Ham United in the late 1990s. By 2009 they married in the Caribbean, and everything seemed perfect.

Then Rebecca received news that she had cancer; her life expectancy was believed to be between two and five years.

Alas the cancer was a lot more rapid and the family's world was turned upside down in May 2015 when she passed away, aged just 34.

In this moving documentary, Rio meets other families coping with bereavement, and looks at what help is available for parents and children who have experienced loss to move on with their lives.

"I don't think I've grieved properly," he explains. "I've not given myself that time to sit down and really flush everything out and go through it."

Here Rio explores ways of managing grief, including his own, and discovers the only way parents can help their kids move on with their lives is for them to begin to rebuild their own first.

Obviously Ferdinand is not alone; every day in the UK, around 75 men under 50 become widowers. This documentary offers viewers a broader insight into how young husbands and fathers cope with grief as the former soccer star speaks to other bereaved men who share their experiences.

By examining the issues around grief, the stigma men often face in displaying and discussing their emotions, and discovering some of the ways people cope with loss, the film highlights the other obstacles bereaved men have to overcome.

"Rio Ferdinand has courageously allowed the cameras to follow him in this revealing and immensely personal documentary exploring the complexities of grief," explains Alison Kirkham, the BBC's Controller of Factual Commissioning and Events.

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY

The Repair Shop

BBC2, 6.30pm

We're often told we live in a disposable culture, where items are routinely thrown away and replaced, but it seems some people still know how to make do and mend. For this new series, a collection of skilled craftspeople, including furniture restorers, horologists, metal workers, ceramicists and upholsterers have been gathered together in once place to help bring broken or damaged family heirlooms back to life. Most of the objects come with a story attached, including the accordion featured in the opening episode, which belongs to a woman in her 90s who shares her memories of playing it during the Blitz. Other items featured over the series include a Davenport desk complete with fake drawers that fooled a burglar, and a pinball machine that currently doubles as a kitchen counter.

Only five contestants will survive the first round, and the remaining cooks are then challenged to prepare a two-course meal to secure a place in the quarter-final. The amateurs not only have to impress John and Gregg, but also the finalists of last year's MasterChef competition.

Make a night of it

Arthur and out – paint the town red before seeing James sing

James Arthur is playing at the O2 Academy in Birmingham next Friday and it would be impossible not to enjoy a big night out. The Ticket's got the lowdown on where to eat, drink and be merry. . .

GRUB'S UP

The options are endless when you're in the heart of Brum. We reckon that James would happily head to Chinatown for some authentic cuisine. New Sum Ye in the Arcadian is a great place to try out. The restaurant is all about seasonal food using fresh ingredients full of colour and flavour. Try the crispy duck or the sizzling king prawn. It's a quick and easy pit stop to fuel up ready to dance your socks off and sing your heart out. If you fancy something really cheap, head to Mr Egg which is just the kind of place James would head to before some beers with the boys.

DRINKS ARE IN

It's a student hotspot with a real Indie vibe, so The Sunflower Lounge is the place to go for a few drinks before the gig. There's live music on tap so it's a good way to get you in the mood for the main event at the O2. Enjoy a cheeky drink or two upstairs and if you do fancy listening to some tunes head downstairs. Just round the corner is The Victoria which is a grand old pub with loads of character and a fantastic atmosphere. There are lots of wines, ales and cocktails on tap so it's perfect for getting the evening started in a right royal fashion.

CATCH SOME ZZS

SPLURGE SLUMBER

Go all out and book a room at The Radisson Blu and enjoy sleep time overlooking the city skyline. With its modern and contemporary design it's got serious 'wow' factor for a night away. It's over the road from The O2 Academy on Queensway so within stumbling distance before and after the gig. Rooms cost from £67.50. But you could push the boat out and get a suite with your mates and swan about in bathrobe and slippers while listening to all of James's top tunes from the iPod dock and stereo.

DISCOUNT DEAL

If all you need is a basic bed for the night, spare any expense by sleeping easy at the Hotel ibis budget. It's down the road from the O2 on Great Colmore Street, so you won't even need to get a cab. It offers comfort in simple surrounds with a variety of bed options (twin, double or triple) and there's an unlimited breakfast buffet too. From £35 it's an absolute dream price and you can catch some zzzs knowing you could afford another ticket to see James perform again.

GETTING THERE

TRAVEL TIME

As it's in the heart of the city centre it's easily accessible by car, train or bus. If you do decide to drive in, there are plenty of car parks near to the venue. They range in price from £1 to £5 for two hours. Or you can park further away and walk in. Catching the train is the best option as New Street station is a five to 10-minute walk from the O2 and trains run across the region. Buses into Birmingham come from all areas so if you live close by this could be a good option.

Smart and versatile in all conditions

By Sharon Walters

Just occasionally you may have the need to take your everyday compact executive saloon off well-surfaced roads and on to something a little less smooth. And then there are the times when the well-surfaced roads become a little unfriendly when covered in mud, floodwater, ice or snow.

Which is exactly when you need the security of perhaps the best car to cope with those situations and provide the services you require – the Audi A4 allroad quattro.

A car that's more than smart enough for business, will also do very well carrying the family around and be sure-footed enough to deal with muddy tracks and fields and those slippery winter roads.

And backing up that opinion are the awards for the A4 including 2017 Fleet World Awards for Best Compact Executive and one of the Best Cars in the World for Big Miles from the BBC Top Gear Magazine.

Fleet World judges said the A4 range was a revolution in its segment and while Top Gear drivers may well push cars to extremes they would never see in normal life, they praised the car's polish as well as performance.

And my week behind the wheel certainly fully tested what the allroad can offer.

My test car was the 3.0 TDi tiptronic which starts at £39,645 on-the-road.

Extras added to it took that cost up to just over £56,000 and made it a very luxurious compact. But in all reality half of those extras would have been enough for me and are good value if you can pay the bill.

The engine is smooth and sophisticated and despite its size incurs annual tax of £145, not a lot when you consider the price of the car – that's down to meeting Euro 6 and its 146 CO2 emissions.

The impressive award-winning A4

And the gearbox and effortless dream. All that sophistication comes with front and rear suspension set-up that absorbs and controls almost everything thrown at it from potholes to muddy ruts.

Plus you can optimise comfort by adding Adaptive Comfort Suspension with damping control or the Adaptive Sport Suspension which gives even better refinement and even better cornering stability. The allroad has fantastic ride quality and passengers easily fall asleep, as I discovered!

I had the 18 inch alloys which reduce fuel consumption but not a lot compared to the standard 17s and I averaged close to 50mpg on combined driving.

It will get from 0-62mph in 5.5 seconds when you need it and had plenty of oomph when

Feeling safe – the Audi A4 allroad quattro is perhaps the best car to adapt to all kinds of road conditions and surfaces you needed it for overtaking and for pushing through winding country lanes and through the Scottish Highlands.

It has a slightly more rugged look than the standard A4 with plastic body cladding on the wheelarches, sills and roof rails plus metallic skidplates front and rear. And there's a raised ride height which greatly helped me on some rutted forest roads. Inside it has a quiet and comfy cabin and so much technical gadgetry in the Audi virtual cockpit, it's difficult to get round it all... standard kit includes the Audi Smartphone Interface with Apple CarPlay and Android Auto plus my extras included the Bang & Olufsen 3D sound system (£975) which makes my home system sound as though it comes from the 90s, an advanced parking assistance pack £1,350 and a special technology pack £2,000 adding even more to the standard specification.

One other extra that I really enjoyed was the panoramic sunroof (£1,250) which flooded the cabin with light and made it feel very light and airy.

PK's thanks as bumper turnout bids farewell

Karlsson and Freddie Lindgren on the podium at Monmore

Riders line up to say goodbye to the Wolves speedway legend Peter Karlsson, who is seen kneeling, front

A handshake for legend Karlsson from ex-Wolves rider Ricky Wells

A BUMPER crowd flocked to Monmore Green to bid a final farewell to Wolves speedway hero Peter Karlsson.

One of the club's all-time greats, Karlsson first rode for Wolves back in 1990. And the super Swede was given a fitting send-off on Sunday night.

Joined by good friend and current Wolves star Freddie Lindgren to make up the Wolves Legends, the duo – with the help of reserves Kyle Howarth and Max Clegg – came out on top against six other pairings including the Swedish Wolves Jacob Thorsell and Magnus Karlsson.

"It has been a pleasure. It has been fantastic," said Karlsson. "I am thrilled, very pleased the event went as well as it did – everybody who turned up seemed to enjoy it."

"All the riders put on a good show, I saw out a few and gave some of the reserves a go so it was a good night all-round."

Former World Champion Sam Ermolenko was also on hand on the evening which saw an auction take place in the main bar following the races, selling Karlsson kevlers, helmets and team race jackets.

Karlsson added: "It has been a life-changing experience for me here."

Involved

"I came here while I was pretty young and I lived here for a while and learnt so much."

"This club means a lot to me and I would like to thank everybody who came out for the event, I hope they had a good time."

"Wolverhampton, it feels like – and has been – a second home to me."

Legend Karlsson thanked all involved with Wolves speedway for the faith shown in him over the years as he said farewell to the club.

The 47-year-old Swede had his final meeting at Monmore Green on Sunday night in front of a jam-packed crowd.

His feats at the club include helping them to the 2009 Elite League title, despite suffering a broken collarbone two weeks prior to the play-off final.

SPORTING MEMORIES

By Joe Edwards

"I will really miss it but then again, I would like to think I managed to repay them a bit over the years."

He played a huge role last term, too, as they beat Belle Vue over two legs to win the Elite League, and also lifted the trophy in 2002. Having ridden for Wolves, on and off, since 1990, the club is very close to Karlsson's heart and he said: "I'm pleased the club kept so much faith in me."

"Over the years, we have shown that we are a big family."

"When I started here, it was Sam Ermolenko and Ronnie Correy and then it was me and my brother, Mikael and now it's Freddie Lindgren and Jacob Thorsell – we have all passed it on to each other, that family spirit."

When asked if one particular moment stands out or whether the whole experience is the stand-out, he said: "Very much so (a collective), it's hard to pinpoint one particular thing."

"Of course, with winning the title last year that is the one fresh in the memory and the one that everyone thinks about."

"We have had so many great moments with so many different riders – the likes of Sam (Ermolenko) and Freddie (Lindgren) – over the years that I have been here."

On the back of last season's Elite League triumph, Karlsson believes the side is strong enough to be up there again this term.

"Definitely, because the club has managed to put a fantastic team together," he said.

"Max Clegg came through, out of nowhere, to help us win the title last year and it's the same with Kyle Howarth."

"It would be great to see the club get back-to-back titles."

Having been such a big part of his life, Karlsson knows he will miss the club dearly but feels he has repaid the support, and now is the time for the young guns to make a real impression.

"I will really miss it but then again, I would like to think I managed to repay them a bit over the years," he added.

"The fans have been fantastic all along – they want to win, just like we do."

"There has been some bad times too, don't get me wrong – injuries and things like that – but you come through them and you win, and that's what we did."

"My message to the fans is thank you for all the support, it means a lot to me."

Fans were keen to thank Karlsson for his spectacular efforts.

Simon Lowbridge, from Coseley, said: "He's been a true great for this club for many years, and for British speedway as a whole. Hopefully there will be many more like him here."

Tony Caldicott – who had travelled from Lakeside to be at the meeting – added: "He's a legend in his own lifetime."

"He is probably the most consistent rider I have seen."

Strong relay squad is Bahamas bound

BLACK COUNTRY athletes Jarryd Dunn and Matthew Hudson-Smith have been selected by Great Britain to take part in the World Relay Championships in the Bahamas next month.

Dunn, aged 25, from Brownhills, and Hudson-Smith, 22, from Lanesfield, Wolverhampton, have both been selected in a full-strength 4x400m squad for the event in Nassau. Theo Campbell, Martyn Rooney, Delano Williams and Rabah Yousif make up the 4x400m line-up.

The event, which takes place from April 22-23, is being looked upon as a key part of the build-up to the 2017 World Athletics Championships in London in August.

Performance director for British Athletics Neil Black said: "We are taking these championships incredibly seriously, something we have shown by selecting our best possible teams."

"I am looking for the team to grasp this opportunity and make a big statement of intent in The Bahamas."

He added: "Our primary focus is firmly on the 4x100m and the 4x400m competitions – the events where we intend to be challenging for medals at London 2017."

No baize of glory as Evans loses title bid

DUDLEY snooker ace Reanne Evans saw her bid for a 12th Women's World Snooker Championship ended by her old foe Ng On Yee.

Evans lost at the semi-final stage to the Hong Kong player, describing her 5-4 defeat as 'shocking' on social media.

Evans, aged 31, has won the world title 11 times, including for 10 consecutive years from 2005 until 2014. The 2015 title was claimed by Yee – who had beaten Evans in the last four. But Evans gained revenge in last year's final.

She had cruised through to the semi-finals after defeating Germany's Diana Schuler 4-0 in the last 16 before despatching Thailand's Siripaporn Nuanthakhamjan 4-1 in the quarter-finals – the only frame she had dropped up to that point.

In her quarter-final, Yee had struggled past Waratthanun Sukritthanes – the conqueror of Netherton's Maria Catalano in the last 16 – to win 4-3. But she edged past Evans in the semi.

After coming unstuck, Evans: "Well that performance was shocking – threw it away #disgusted #itsonlyagame."

Eggington handed European title shot

STOURBRIDGE boxing star Sam Eggington has been handed a shot at a European title. The 23-year-old welterweight will take on Ceferino Rodriguez for the Spaniard's EBU belt at The Barclaycard Arena on May 13.

Eggington is aiming to continue his ascent in the sport after notching up the most impressive victory of his career earlier this month with an eighth-round stoppage of two-weight world champion Paulie Malignaggi.

Already a mandatory challenger for the EBU belt, Eggington's clash with Ceferino was last week confirmed as chief support for a show topped by Birmingham fighter Kal Yafai's first defence of his WBA super flyweight crown.

Ceferino has suffered just one defeat in a 25-fight professional career and will pose a test for Eggington, who has reeled off three straight wins after losing his British title to Bradley Skeete last March.

"I had to learn a lot after Skeete," said Eggington, who rose through the ranks as an amateur at Warley Boxing Club. "I have real hunger back after losing to Skeete and this is massive for me as I never thought I'd reach this level."

By George! Bowerman hits winner

Rushall 1 Buxton 0

OLYMPIC put in a battling display to secure three hard-earned Evo-Stik Premier League points.

The Pies took an early lead when George Bowerman was alive to a kind bounce inside the area to lift the ball over the keeper and open his scoring account for the club in the third minute.

It was a lively start by the home side and Joe Hull went close to doubling the lead as he headed a corner just wide.

As Buxton started to get into the game, Joe McGee got himself into a good position inside the area only for his effort from a tight angle to be bravely blocked by Sam Whittall.

Right at the end of the opening period, Pies' Isaac Cooper delivered an inviting low ball that found Craig Bannister at the far post but his effort to be blocked.

The early action of the second period saw Mickael Partodikromo rattle the woodwork with a strike from distance.

Bannister also went close for the Pies before McGee headed over from a corner at the other end. But Rushall survived a spell of pressure towards the end to see the game out and secure a good three points.

Pelsall Villa 0 Chelmsley Town 0

PELSALL Villa and Chelmsley Town played out a goalless draw at The Bush in a lower end of the table clash.

With both teams coming into the match in need of three points to lift them clear of the relegation battle, it was unlikely to be high scoring match.

Both sides shared the few chances create and with Villa reduced to 10 men on 70 minutes the momentum swung the way of the visitors. The Villains could have won it late on with Ryan Wilkins shooting wide from a good chance but the points shared was a fair result.

Pelsall's next match is away to Littleton on Saturday.

Championship in Barbarians' grasp with game to play

Bloxwich 3 Ludlow 1

BLOXWICH Hockey Club go into the final weekend of the season knowing a win will see them crowned champions.

The Mens First XI knew victory here would keep their chances of winning the league alive – and they didn't disappoint.

They started strongly with Jamie Proberts controlling an aerial ball at the top of the D and finishing beautifully to give Bloxwich the lead.

Another goal followed with a deft Jake Perkins touch from a short corner.

Ludlow got back into the game and threatened at times but Bloxwich managed to take a 3-0 lead from a well finished goal by Gary Williams on his birthday.

Ludlow were the stronger side towards the end of the second half but Bloxwich managed to steady the ship and defended well to hold onto the lead.

A solid win for Bloxwich followed by the news that league leaders Bromsgrove had drawn with Wednesbury means that the fate of the league title is now in Bloxwich's hands. They need just a victory at Leamington on Saturday.

Ryan sets sights on Paralympics

By Jordan Harris

Ryan Cockbill

ALDRIDGE shooter Ryan Cockbill has got off to a golden start as looks to claim a Paralympic Gold medal.

The world champion shooter has competed at the last two Paralympic games. Both times he finished just outside the top eight in his category, narrowly missing out on advancing to the finals and a chance for a medal.

He now has his sights set on Tokyo 2020 but in the meantime the 26-year-old has to keep active in both training and competitions.

Last month, he competed in the Al Ain World Shooting Para Sport World Cup, winning the R5 category for mixed 10 metre air rifle prone shooting and taking silver in the R4 category for mixed 10 metre air rifle standing shooting.

This puts Ryan in good shape to improve on his Paralympic performances in three years time. He said: "I don't put enormous pressure on myself, most shooters don't reach their peak until their mid 30s or early 40s. At the moment I feel in the best form of my life. All I can do is keep practising and taking part in competitions."

Ryan first got involved in disability sport after breaking his neck in a freak paddling pool accident in 2006. In May 2007 he was introduced to a number of sports at the Stoke Mandeville Spinal Unit Games and first tried target shooting.

His first taste of international competition was the 2010 IPC Shooting World Cup in Szczecin, Poland, and he won four trophies. He returns for the Szczecin World Shooting Para Sport Grand Prix in April.

TOP SIX HOPES ARE ALL AT SEA

Southend 3 Walsall 2

FOR reasons that have been well documented – it was always unlikely Walsall would clinch a place in the top six this season.

But any hopes of finishing in the play-offs are now as good as over following some horror defending on the south coast.

Jon Whitney's side entered this crucial six-pointer knowing defeat for either team would end their faint hopes of reaching the Championship.

In the end it was Phil Brown's Shrimpers who came away with the points and their season aims still intact, writes Joe Masi.

Yet it could – and should – have been the other way around. After 25 minutes at Roots Hall, you couldn't help but feel Lady Luck was smiling on the Saddlers.

Forgotten man Franek Moussa had given his side a two-goal lead after coming as an early replacement for the injured Erhun Oztumer, two carbon copy goals made by Joe Edwards.

Prod

And, as the clock ticked past the hour, Walsall looked in control. Brown had to gamble and did with Jason Demetriou and Theo Robinson thrown into the fold.

And a frantic 20-minute spell saw the hosts score three times – with all the goals coming from set-pieces. For the first, the Saddlers switched off to allow Ben Coker to send Will Atkinson away down the left.

The winger's cross was then headed home by Nile Ranger and within minutes, Walsall only half-cleared a deep Anthony Wordsworth free-kick with Anton Ferdinand able to prod home.

Walsall seemed unable to halt Southend's momentum, so when James O'Connor tripped Wordsworth right on the edge of the box, you sensed the home side would complete a dramatic turnaround. So it proved as Simon Cox curled an exquisite strike over the wall and into the net.

Whitney now has the rest of this season and the summer to solve the problems at the back. Only once he does will a top-six place be achievable.

Dennis, 87, still gets his kicks

Dennis Whistance shows off his skills to Saddlers players

AN 87-year-old footballer determined to not hang up his boots has been rewarded for his love of the beautiful game by training with the Saddlers.

Dennis Whistance, from Bentley, headed to the club's Essington training ground meet players and staff.

Whistance has been a regular at walking football sessions organised by Walsall's Community Programme for the past three years. He cycles to sessions held at Sneyd Community Association on Tuesdays, and also plays at the Bank's Stadium on Friday evenings.

He admitted he was delighted to meet Jon Whitney and his players – despite being a

Wolves fan. "To have the chance to come and look around Walsall's training ground and meet the players has been wonderful," he said. "I'm a Wolves fan. In the 1938/39 season I went up the Wolves and it stuck. But Walsall are my second team and I saw them play at the old Fellows Park."

Whistance once toured Wolves' Compton training base after his grandchildren won an auction – and scored three penalties past Carl Ikeme.

Whistance said he walking football had kept him mobile, and helped him to forge new friendships. "Most people my age have very little to do. It's important to stay active."

Pitmen show an interest in Westwood

PROLIFIC striker Dan Westwood netted again in his latest game for Wolverhampton Sporting – as Hednesford became the latest club to make a move for the hotshot.

Sporting thrashed Dudley Town 7-0 in the Premier Division league clash and Westwood was among those to get on the score sheet.

Boss Andy Paddock has revealed the Northern Premier League side made an approach for Westwood, who has scored more than 100 goals for Sporting, on Friday. But Paddock said: "Hednesford made an approach on Friday for Westwood, but I don't think the bid has been accepted by the club."

Sporting previously received an offer from Stafford Rangers for the forward's goal-scoring services.

Westwood scored twice for Sporting in Hednesford's 3-2 Staffordshire Senior Cup quarter-final win last week.

Sporting's victory at the weekend maintained their spot in second place. Phil McKerdy and Jak Barnes each scored a brace whilst man-of-the-match Kyle Delaney and Dimitri Dunkley also scored. The club are now focused on defending their league position, and winning their Premier Division League Cup quarter-final tie against Malvern Town.

Paddock said: "It was a great performance. Once we got our noses in front, we got two quick goals and it was game over. We have now surpassed the 100 goals tally for this season."

Sporting were away to Bewdley Town on Tuesday night, and on Saturday entertain third-placed Wolverhampton Casuals at their Pride Park home, Hazel Lane, Great Wyrley.

Burntwood on oche to claim darts crown

BURNTWOOD & District have been crowned the 2016/17 Rotary District Sports darts champions.

They defeated Six Towns 4-2 in the final at Gilberts, Willenhall.

In the semi-finals, held on the same night, Burntwood beat Dudley and Six Towns defeated Newport Lite.

Said Rotary District Sports Officer Simon Sims: "There was excellent fellowship between the four clubs, together with an enjoyable buffet."

The evening was organised by the sports co-ordinator for darts Ian Rigby of the Rotary Club of Tettenhall.
